

WT Docket 05-235

I am in favor of eliminating the morse code portion of the licensing requirements. I have heard many of the opinions from those who are in favor of keeping thee code requirement, but most are simply opinion and none appear to be based on fact. Morse code is just one of many different operating modes, and the declining popularity in using morse code to communicate appears to be a natural progression as other more efficient means of communication are replacing it. Let an ounce of history be equal to a ton of logic and drop the code requirement.

Sincerely,

James Townley
